

BOY DIES FROM SHOT GUN WOUND

Clarence Yeager, Aged 14, of Rays Crossing, Living Only Few Hours After Hunting Accident.

LEAVES DEATH BED WARNING

One is Only One of Many Misfortunes Befalling Boy's Widowed Mother in Last Few Months.

Clarence Yeager, age fourteen years, son of Mrs. Nancy Yeager of Rays Crossing, near Manilla, died last evening from a gun wound received a few hours before when a shot gun he was carrying accidentally discharged.

"Tell the boys to be more careful," was his death bed warning.

With Will Marshall, a boy friend from Indianapolis, the two were squirrel hunting in the woods, near Rays Crossing, during the greater part of the morning. The victim of the accident was standing on a log in the woods and had rolled a cigarette and started to light it, when he lost his balance and fell. He was carrying a shotgun and as he fell it was discharged, the entire load entering the left side of his body just below the heart. An ugly wound was made in the large muscle of his left arm and the wrist on the same arm was powder burned.

Standing not far from him was his boy friend and he was horror stricken when he reached his companion's side and discovered the terrible wound.

James Cherry, who lives near the scene of the accident, was summoned and the wounded lad was carried to the Cherry home, where Dr. Samuel Kennedy, of Shelbyville, and Dr. G. I. Inlow, of Blue Ridge, were summoned. When the physicians arrived and made an examination of the injuries they realized at once that the victim could not live long. The left lung was completely torn away and a hole the size of a cantaloupe was inflicted in his side, from which his intestines protruded.

At three-thirty o'clock Friday afternoon the boy was removed from the Cherry home to the home of his mother.

A brother of the hunting accident victim died on June 24, of this year, and on December 31, last, a young man to whom the sister, Marie was to have been married shortly contracted pneumonia and died suddenly while visiting at the Yeager home. Previous to these troubles of the last year, the life of Mrs. Yeager was saddened by the death of a husband, step-father of the boy, who committed suicide by hanging. The home is, indeed, one of gloom at this time.

The funeral will be held at two-thirty o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Christian Union church, at Rays Crossing, the Rev. O. J. McMullen, the pastor, officiating.

TWO FINED.

Frank Vance and Jesse Ridout were arraigned before Mayor Bebout this morning on charges of public intoxication and each pleaded guilty. They were fined one dollar and costs each, amounting to $11. The fines were stayed.

The funeral of twin children born to the wife of W. A. Jones of Richland Thursday night was held yesterday.

Miss Lillie Vogel living in the southern part of the county, was operated on for appendicitis at Sexton's sanatorium yesterday.

PLANS MADE FOR A BIG MEETING

Republican Party Workers Decide on Mammoth Rally the Last Week Before the Election.

DATES ARE INDEFINITE YET

Automobile Tour of County the Last Week Also Another Plan Made at Meeting Last Night.

That a militant campaign is to be conducted by the Republican party in Rush county up until election was indicated by the sentiment of a meeting of organization workers from all parts of the county held at Republican headquarters last night. A big rally and an automobile tour of the county similar to that conducted by Republicans in other parts of the state is planned for the last week of the campaign.

The Republicans will likely hold their monster rally here Saturday, October 31, the last Saturday before the election. The automobile tour will be at any earlier date that week. But none of the dates is certain yet because speakers have not been arranged for.

It is practically arranged for P. J. Lynch, Republican nominee for congress in this district, to come into this county the last week. Mr. Lynch has been making speeches all around Rush county and at some of the towns on the edge of the county, but he has never started his Rush county campaign yet. Mr. Lynch is developing into one of the best campaigners this district ever knew. He has a fine personality which leaves its effect on every person he meets. Mr. Lynch is laying stress on the personal campaign and is making great headway with it.

Automobile tours of counties, an innovation started by Republican campaign managers in Indiana, has developed into one of the more popular methods of campaigning. The plan is for some automobiles with speakers to leave the county seat in the morning of any given day and make a circle of the county, stopping for a meeting at all of the towns in the county. At each stop the plan is for party workers to join the squadron of automobiles, until, augmented by the crowds from each place, there is a large number of machines when the crowd gets back to the starting point, the county seat. Such a trip is generally followed by a big rally and meeting at night.

Committees were appointed last night by County Chairman Fon Riggs to arrange for the meetings the last week. James E. Watson will co-operate with the arrangements committee to bring a speaker of national reputation here for the last week. The arrangements committee is as follows:

Charles A. Frazee, T. W. Lytle, Will Bliss, E. B. Thomas, Dr. Frank Green, P. A. Miller, Will E. Havens and Manly Pearce. The finance committee is as follows: Earl H. Payne, R. P. Havens, Albert Winship, John C. Blackledge, Frank Wilson and R. F. Seudder.

PAPAL SECRETARY DIES.

(By United Press.)
Rome, Oct. 10.—Cardinal Domenico Ferrata, papal secretary of state, died this afternoon following an attack of appendicitis complicated by peritonitis. His removal from the powerful office of secretary of state will temporarily halt the efforts looking to peaceful settlement of the war which the cardinal had begun, acting under orders of Pope Benedict.

SHOWS CROWD COPY OF LETTER

Jesse Eshbach Springs Political Sensation at Tipton Friday Night With Revelation.

METHODS OF HOMER L. COOK

Former Speaker of House Wrote Copy Book Author Asking For Proposition to Get Adoption.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.—In a speech at Tipton last night Jesse Eshbach, Republican floor leader in the House in the last two sessions of the Indiana general assembly, sprang a political sensation that is expected to have a most important bearing on the result of the November election.

Eshbach exhibited a photographic copy of a letter written by Homer L. Cook, speaker of the last House, on the official stationery of the general assembly of Indiana, and told his hearers that the original letter and envelope in which it was enclosed are available and that he is responsible and dared Cook to deny the authenticity of this letter.

It has been charged repeatedly by Democratic and Republican newspapers of the state that Cook, because of his record as speaker of the last house, was unfit to occupy the office of secretary of state for which he was nominated by the Crawford Fairbanks-Tom Taggart political organization. This letter to which Mr. Eshbach referred tends to indicate that Cook tried to use the prestige of the great office he held to advance his own personal financial ends. This letter will call for a lot of explanation from Mr. Cook. A careful perusal of the letter will show just how difficult a task now confronts Mr. Cook.

With Cook as speaker of the House, a number of bills that were killed by the legislature were written into the statute books of Indiana. This constituted the greatest disgrace in the State's history. Governor Ralston, responding to the call of the Taggart machine, made an effort recently to defend Cook, declaring that similar mistakes had been made in former sessions of the legislature and branded those who were referring to Cook's manifest unfitness to hold public office as "Scurrilous hounds." Possibly Governor Ralston may now feel called on to help Cook explain the letter to which Mr. Eshbach referred in his speech last night.

This letter, which is to play such an important part in the present Indiana campaign, was written by Cook, on official House stationery on March 20, 1913, a few days after the 1913 session of the legislature had adjourned, to J. H. Woodruff, one of the joint authors of Berry's Copy Books. Here is the letter:

Indianapolis, Ind. March 20, 1913.
"To Mr. J. H. Woodruff,
"San Diego, California.

"I called at your home here in the city this afternoon and found that you were in California. I am interested in the adoption of the copy books for Indiana next year and am wanting to know what kind of a proposition you would make to a company that would take your copy book and try to get its adoption. Please write me, stating just what you will do. I would expect you to come here and help in the work of getting the adoption. Please keep this matter confidential, as I do not wish to be known publicly in the affair. An early reply will be appreciated.
"HOMER L. COOK."

After reading this letter will Governor Ralston continue to advise voters of Indiana to support Cook?

ANTWERP FALLS BEFORE GERMANS

Belgian Capital, Realizing Hopefulness of Continuing Struggle, Give up to Enemy Today.

ARMY EVACUATES FRIDAY

Two-Thirds of City Wrecked After Shells Are Dropped Into It For 48 Hours Continuously

(By United Press.)

London, Oct. 10.—Realizing the hopelessness of continuing its struggle against the great German 42 centimeters siege guns, Antwerp has surrendered. German forces have entered the city and now control it. Fires are still burning in many sections of the city, having been ignited by the terrific bombardment to which it was subjected.

Two-thirds of the city is wrecked by the tremendous fire of shells which German batteries poured on its buildings. The great Cathedral of Notre Dame, built in the fourteenth century and renowned as one of the most wonderful examples of Gothic architecture now extant has been seriously damaged by the German bombardment. The Belgian defenders had mounted rapid firers on the towers of the building despite the German warning that if the structure was used for military purposes it would be shelled.

Two thirds of the population had left Antwerp before its surrender was decided upon. The burgomaster and artillery commandant held that no end would be achieved by further destruction of the city and continued sacrifice of life. There was no stopping the Germans. King Albert had led out of the beleaguered city all of the Belgian army except the few artillerymen necessary to man the guns in Antwerp's forts.

When the surrender of the capital was decided upon, the retreating troops blew up the famous fort of north of the city, to prevent it being utilized in future operations by the Germans.

No details are as yet available here concerning the manner in which the city was surrendered. Dispatches merely mention the entry of the German forces and give a few graphic words descriptive of the horrors of the German bombardment. The shells into the city was almost continuous for forty-eight hours.

The report was confirmed that the main Belgian army evacuated the city yesterday.

A few of the inner rings of forts are still occupied by Belgian troops who are keeping up a desultory fire against the German forces. The city itself, is under German domination and it is only a question of time until all the forts are silenced. Their continued resistance will have little effect on the Germans.

It is not known in which city the Belgian Capital will now be established although dispatches earlier in the week announced that all the ministers of the government were at Ostend.

(By United Press.)
Side Park Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Another perfect baseball day greeted the Athletic and Braves as they prepared for the second game of the world's series this afternoon. Plank was chosen to stem the tide of the on-rushing Braves while James worked for Boston. The lineup was altered some to face the south-paws.

Stallings called his infield from practice before his time expired because of the heat.

FIRST INNING.
Boston—Mann out, Collins to McInnis. Evers beat out a bunt that Plank couldn't handle. Cather fanned. Whitted walked. Schmidt popped out to Strunk. No runs. No hits. No errors. Plank's low fast ball had them guessing.

Philadelphia—Murphy walked, tried to steal second when Schmidt dropped James' poor throw and was out at second, Schmidt to Maranville. Oldring out, Deal to Schmidt. Collins out, Deal to Schmidt. No runs. No hits. No errors.

SECOND INNING.
Boston—Gowdy walked. Maranville sacrificed, Baker to McInnis. Gowdy was out trying for third on Deal's top. Plank to Baker to Collins. Deal stole second. James fanned. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Philadelphia—Baker fouled out to Schmidt. McInnis fanned. Strunk fanned. No runs. No hits. No errors. Boston fans cheered wildly.

THIRD INNING.
Boston—Mann out, Barry to Mc-

Innis. Evers singled to center, his second hit. Cather tapped to Baker. Evers out stealing Schang to Collins. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Philadelphia—Barry flied to Cather. Schang flied to Cather. Plank fanned. No runs. No hits. No errors. Only nine men faced James in three innings.

FOURTH INNING.
Boston—Whitted flied to Strunk. Schmidt singled to right. Gowdy flied to Murphy. Maranville singled to right, Schmidt stopping at second. Deal forced Maranville, Barry unassisted. No runs. Two hits. No errors. Barry made a wonderful play on Deal's grounder which bounded high.

Philadelphia—Murphy out, James to Schmidt. Oldring fanned for the third time of the series. Collins out. Maranville to Schmidt. No runs. No hits. No errors.

FIFTH INNING.
Boston—James fanned. Mana singled to center. Evers flied to Strunk. Cather forced Mann, Barry to Collins. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Philadelphia—Baker flied to Whitted. McInnis fanned. Strunk fanned. No runs. No hits. No errors.

SIXTH INNING.
Boston—Whitted popped to Collins. Schmidt flied to Murphy Gowdy walked. Maranville was hit by a pitched ball. Deal forced Gowdy at third, Baker unassisted. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Philadelphia—Barry out, Maran-

RETAIN OLD BOARD FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Farmers' Insurance Company Re-Elects Officials and Hears Report of Actuary.

WIDAU SUFFERED BIG LOSS

The annual meeting of the Rush County Farmers Insurance Company was held this afternoon in the assembly room of the court house. The old board was retained for another year at the annual election. The board is composed of John Gartin, president; T. A. Jones, vice-president and L. R. Webb, actuary.

The report of the actuary was submitted and approved. The report showed that the company paid $10,695 in fire losses during the past year. The largest loss was that sustained by John Widau. The company paid Widau $5,223 for his loss. According to the report this was the largest loss the company ever paid and the origin of the fire which destroyed a barn shed and a large amount of grain and six horses is still unknown despite the fact that an assistant from the state fire marshal's office investigated.

The teachers of Center and Washington township held their joint-institute today in Raleigh.

BOSTON COUNTS ON THE PENNANT

Even This Morning Braves Believed The Championship Just as Good as Won.

ATHLETICS OUTGENERALED

Mackmen do Best in First Game But Seem Non-Plussed by Braves System of Attack.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

(Written for United Press.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Boston's Braves swept the Athletics off their feet, out-played, outgeneralled and out-gamed them in the opening game of the series and they face the world's champions today with more confidence and belief in their ability to win than they ever had.

In the first clash of the series the Braves carried out their plan of attack, rushed their assault, gave Rudolph brilliant support and drove Chief Bender off the mound in less than six rounds. The terrific hitting of Hank Gowdy and the wonderful nerve and skill of Rudolph made the world's champions look like sand-lotters.

This morning, Boston believed the championship as good as won. Stallings planned to send Tyler at the Athletics today and match his left-handed shoots against the skill and wisdom of Eddie Plank with the firm confidence that, if Tyler gets by today, James will beat them on Monday. The Athletics however, are far from discouraged and the defeat had little or no effect on them.

The champions were stopped by Rudolph, who pitched one of the most remarkable games in the history of sport. He had everything save a fast ball. He used his spitter with deadly effect and twenty-seven of the champions "topped the ball." Only seven got hold of the ball cleanly. He used a slow ball, a curve, his spitter, and not once during the game did the Athletics really threaten him. It was not so much what Rudolph had, as how he used it. Twice when he was in the hole, he broke his curve over at Barry and out-guessed him. Twice he shoved his dinky fast ball across the center of the plate for third strikes and from start to finish he outguessed the Athletic batters. Three times during the game he was in a bad fix and crept out by his own nerve mainly.

The great crowd that watched the struggle, must have wondered what was the trouble with the champions. They could not seem to get up their speed. In the second inning, in the midst of a rally Strunk was so slow coming from third to the plate that he was cut down when he should have walked home with the tying run. In the fourth Strunk, supposedly one of the fleetest of the Mackmen, was caught at second on a hit on which Ping Bodie could have made double. It looked odd. The Mackmen were doing their best but seemed non-plussed by the Braves system of attack and defense. Whatever they tried went wrong and meantime the Braves were assaulting Bender viciously and without regard to the rules of warfare.

The chief looked good. He was fast, his ball was hopping and his curve was breaking fairly well. But when he got the smoke on the ball, he lacked control and when he slowed down to second speed to get the ball over, the Braves waded in and hit the tar out of it. Especially Mr. M. Gowdy, who promises to be the Frank Baker of this series. This tall, angular, serious young man whaled out a double, a triple and a single, besides drawing a pass. It was his slugging that put Bender hors de combat for the first time in his world's series career.

Maranville was there with two timely swats that sent runs home after Gowdy has pounded a breach in the Athletic defenses. One of Maranville's hits was a perfectly placed poke over first that was one of the Millie Reeler kind of hits and as it yielded the third run and put Rudolph on easy street, it counted for more than did Gowdy's long smashes.

So far as actual defensive work the battle was about even. Neither team had many opportunities for brilliant work, and both arose to the occasion whenever chance was presented. Barry and Maranville made magnificent catches of short flies over the infield and the speed of the two in-fields was attested by the five double plays that broke rallies.

I think the greatest play of the game was Putch Schmidt's in the second inning when, after catching a foul at a difficult angle, he made a wonderful throw to third that cut down a runner and broke the Athletics' rally when it seemed they would even up the count and start anew. Deal handled the bounding fast throw perfectly and deserves a lot of credit.

Boston's rooters captured Philadelphia last night and are mad with excitement, but as a matter of fact there is small reason for them to celebrate. Even in defeat the Athletics revealed to students of the game the weakness of the Boston team. The loss of Smith could scarcely have been more vividly revealed than it was today. With Smith at third the chances are that the Braves would have scored ten instead of seven runs. Three times Deal was up in the pinch and three times hit into double plays and the other time he stretched out. Schmidt looked bad as a first baseman save for his one great play.

BRAVES WIN SECOND

ville to Schmidt. Schang doubled to left. Schang out, Gowdy to Deal when he tried to steal third. Plank out, Maranville to Schmidt. No runs. One hit. No errors. Only eighteen men faced James in six innings.

SEVENTH INNING.

Boston—James fanned. Mann fanned, Schang getting an assist and Melnis a put-out, when Schang dropped the third strike. Evers out, Baker to Melnis. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Philadelphia—Murphy fanned. Oldring out, Evers to Schmidt. Collins singled to Evers. It was a hit but Evers nearly caught him. Collins was caught off first. James to Schmidt. No runs. One hit. No errors.

EIGHTH INNING.

Boston—Cather out, Barry to Melnis. Whitted safe when Melnis dropped Barry's assist. Schmidt forced Whitted, Collins to Barry. Gowdy flied to Strunk. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Philadelphia—Baker out, Evers to Schmidt. Maranville muffed Melnis' high foul. Error for Maranville. Melnis fouled to Deal. Strunk out, Evers to Schmidt. No runs. No hits. One error.

NINTH INNING.

Boston—Maranville out, Barry to Melnis. Deal doubled to center. Deal stole third. He was caught napping at second but Baker failed to cover third and Barry held the ball, which had been thrown him by Schang. James fanned. Mann singled to right scoring Deal. Mann took second on a passed ball. Evers walked. Cather forced Evers, Barry to Collins. One run. Two hits. No errors.

Philadelphia—Barry walked. Walsh will bat for Plank. Schang fanned as Barry stole second. Walsh walked. Murphy up. First one a ball. Second is a foul strike. Strike two on Murphy. Murphy hit into a double play Maranville to Schmidt. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Good Things Never Sell Below Par

But many an inferior article is sold for twice its worth. This is especially so in vehicles. Very few dealers sell buggies at one price to all. We do and everybody pays the same. That is the reason our buggies are lower priced than our competitors. We have but one price and it has to be low enough to impress our customers and get the business. We want you to see our storm buggies. They are the best that can be bought and we believe we have the only door that can not and will not rattle. You can not find a better storm buggy with a better reputation for road service or a finer looking one than we have but you can find higher priced ones that simply mean more profit lacked on. Be guided by these facts rather than led by false hopes and when you get ready for a storm buggy we want to show you the best line you ever looked at and at a price that represents value received. You will eventually buy your buggies of Spivey. Why not start now?

The Trey O' Hearts

If you've got a drop of red blood in your veins—if your heart beats one bit faster to the tune of romance—adventure—love and mystery—then you've something in store so far ahead of anything you've ever seen that you will never forget.

The Pictures The Universal Film Manufacturing Co., pronounced THE TREY O' HEARTS the best action story for film purposes they had seen in three years. They backed up their judgment by putting the punch and $200,000 cash into a set of pictures that are more than remarkable—they're simply extraordinary.

Won't Cost You One Red Penny You attend the movies—regularly. Instead of an ordinary film, you'll see graphically pictured by the best emotional actors and actresses in America—THE TREY O' HEARTS—a pace maker in pictures. So it won't cost you a nickel more to see it.

Mental Back Somersaults No matter how clever, you can't fathom the plot of THE TREY O' HEARTS one inch ahead of the scene you're viewing. It keeps you turning mental back somersaults all the way.

Full Reel Action in Every Foot The Universal Film Manufacturing Co., who are producing these films tell us that there is more action in every foot of THE TREY O' HEARTS than in a full reel of the ordinary scenario. And they should know. Thousands of scenarios go through their hands every year and they're investing $200,000 in putting THE TREY O' HEARTS on the screen. That's backing judgment. And their success in the moving picture business tells whether or not they know a good thing when they see it.

The Combination.

Republicans are continually finding evidence of the combination existing between Democrats and Progressives to defeat the Republican party at any cost. As has been proved on any number of occasions,
the Democratic party, in Indiana,
particularly, realizes the Progressive party is the best ally it has and that its only hope of success lies in the success of its efforts to keep the breath of life in the third party.

William J. Bryan, secretary of state in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet
and the man who denounced the bosses, including Tom Taggart of Indiana, at the Baltimore convention
in 1912 and secured the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, came into Indiana yesterday for a two days'
speaking tour in the interests of Democratic ticket, state machine and
all. He adroitly dodged special mention of the scandal in the Democratic party in Indiana, but he said support of the ticket is necessary as indorsement of President Wilson.

Tonight Secretary Bryan will close his speaking tour in the state with a meeting at Tomlinson hall. But you will ask how that can be possible
when the Bull Moosers had the same hall rented for tonight and had arranged for a grand blowout where Albert J. Beveridge was to speak.
You need only one guess. The Progressive party had to pay for past favors rendered. The Progressive party very kindly stepped aside and allowed the Democrats to use Tomlinson hall tonight.

When Beveridge held a meeting at Boonville recently, in each copy of the Evansville Courier, the Democratic organ in that section of the state, appeared on the morning of the day Beveridge was in Boonville
a great, big "yellow dodger" advertising a "Progressive rally and free
band concert."

People will take with a grain of salt Beveridge's prattling about the great bi-partisan machine in Indiana that is working to defeat the Progressive party.

Some Sharp Words

"Ignorant Buffons" is the way W.
C. Ball, one of the best known Democrats in Indiana characterizes President and William J. Bryan in a communication published by the Saturday Spectator of Indianapolis. Mr.
Ball is now serving as a member of the Board of Trustee of the Indiana Prison Farm by appointment of Governor Ralston. He was formerly editor of a Democratic paper here.
In his letter to the spectator he says:
"Editor Spectator—A scintillant
sentence in a Star editorial on Wednesday reads as follows:
"The truth is that the continued
presence of our ships at Vera Cruz
is making us ridiculous."
Kindly permit me to remark that those grave and reverend Signors,
the diplomatists and statesmen of Europe seem to be too busy witnessing the sanguinary tragedy of their own devising, to enjoy thoroughly
the ridiculousness of the bloodless comedy enacted here with those two ignorant buffons, Wilson and Bryan,
in the stellar rolls.

Disappears in Illinois

The official results of the recent Illinois primary show that the Progressive party has practically disappeared in this state. Raymond Robins, Bull Moose candidate for U.
S. Senator, received but 25,043 votes
as against 386,478 cast for Roosevelt in Illinois in 1912. The Progressive vote in Cook county was but 7,391 as against 166,961 votes registered in that county for Roosevelt in 1912.

The Republican vote in the recent Illinois primary totalled 210,935 as against 253,613 cast for Taft in 1912 13,682 women in Cook county voted in the Republican primary while only 2,299 women voted for the Progressive candidates.

Despite the fact that it just recently negotiated two different loans
for $50,000 each to replenish the depleted treasury of the city, the Joe Bell-Tom Taggart city administration, with only $15,000 left on hands,

is asking County Treasurer Carl Von Hake to advance the city at once another $15,000. If Von Hake refuses as he no doubt will, for he has done
so in the past, the Democrats will be compelled to borrow more money.

This month there will be bills amounting to $60,000.00 from the Board of Public Works. This is $15,- 000 more than the city can raise, despite the payment of the fall taxes
this month. City Controller Dunn says if the county refuses to advance
the money, he will ask the council to authorize a third loan.

FIGURES THAT HURT
INDIANA TAXPAYERS

The average cost per year of the state government under four administrations—two Democratic and two Republicans—follows:

Administration,	Cost per year
Durbin (Rep.)$2,389,709.41
Hanly (Rep.)2,805,163.29
Marshall (Dem.)3,673,812.03
Ralston (Dem.)	1 yr 4,433,879.70

These figures, taken from the official records of the state of Indiana, should prove interesting and instructive to the taxpayers of Indiana. Why should it cost $1,628,716.41 more to run the government of Indiana a year under the present Democratic administration
than it did under the last Republican administration?

Do you think this is good business?
If not, vote the straight ticket of the Republican party, which is pledged to economy and efficiency in the conduct of state affairs.

GOEBELIZING INDIANA.

Do you want the Crawford Fair
banks-Tom Taggart-Donn Roberts-Terre Haute Brewing Company gang
of political highbinders to Goebelize Indiana? Under the law the State will have to be redistributed for legislative purposes next year. If this outfit is permitted to control the next Legislature as it did the last one, it will see to it that the legislative districts are so reconstructed as to make it possible
for them to control the Indiana General Assembly for the next ten years.
Do you want to take a chance in this direction? If you do not, there is just one way by which you can prevent this, and that is by voting for the Republican nominees for the State Legislature. Other parties are presenting candidates for the Legislature, but the bosses of those parties will admit they haven't a chance in a million to make even a decent showing. Don't be a blank cartridge this year! Beating the air will avail nothing. Cast your ballot for the legislative candidates of the Republican party—the party that is to control the next Indiana General Assembly.

DEMOCRAT PRESIDES; INDORSES REPUBLICANS.

Prairieton, Ind., Sept. 30.—J. H.
Wible, one of the strongest Democrats of Vigo county presided at a Democratic meeting here last night. "I am glad to preside at this meeting," said Mr. Wible. "In 1910 the Democratic candidates came to us seeking for support, promising good government
and more economical administration of public business. They repeated those promises in 1912. They did not keep a single promise. This year for the first time in my life I am going to vote the straight Republican ticket
and you may be interested to know that all of my Democratic friends are going to do the same thing."
The meeting adjourned promptly
and the Roberts candidates "beat it"
out of town back to Terre Haute.

CHICAGO TRIES TO FIND WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED ARMY.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—To find work for the thousands of unemployed men in Chicago was the object of the conference that was held under the direction of the city council between members of the municipal markets commission
and some twenty-six heads of public and semi-public departments and companies which are large employers of labor.

The unemployed problem promises to be a troublesome one during the coming winter. Never before in the history of the city has it been necessary to take up this question as early as this year. The ranks of the unemployed are daily becoming larger.

*The government of Indiana last year, under Democratic rule, cost $166,000,000
more than it did under the last Republican administration.*
*Three dollars a minute—
each minute in the day and
each day in the year—more under Democratic rule than under Republican rule!*
*Mr. Taxpayer, do
you think this is good business?*

Edith Story will be shown.

The Gem will show the first installment of "The Trey O'Hearts" for the program tonight. "The Trey O' Hearts" is taken from the novel by Louis Joseph Vance and the picture is said to be full of romantic incidents. The serial is in fifteen installments and will be shown every Saturday night. The story is appearing in the Daily Republican every Thursday and Friday.

The Portola will show three Keystone comedies for the program tonight. Mabel Norman, Roscoe Arbuckle and many other Mutual stars
are featured and all three are said
to be clever pictures.

The Mystic will show "The Seventh Prelude" a great detective picture for tonight. Next Wednesday matinee and night the Vitagraph
features in five reels "A Million Bid" will be shown. It is said to be a wonderful picture and features such well known stars as Julia Swayne

Are You Afflicted With Rheumatism or Kidney Trouble?

If you are it will be your own fault after reading this advertisement. Wolcott's Diuretic Cordial is a safe and sure remedy for these painful troubles. It is not an experiment. I have made it for more than 20 years and do not have to name people who live in some other state who have been remarkably cured. Can give you the names of Rush county citizens who were on crutches who were cured with it. Your money back if not satisfied

CHANGE IN FIRM ANNOUNCED TODAY

Frank Reynolds Buys Out Interest
of Harry Clifford in Reynolds
& Clifford Factory

WILL BE KNOWN BY NEW NAME

A change in the firm of Reynolds & Clifford was announced today whereby Harry Clifford retires and Frank Reynolds take complete charge. Mr. Reynolds bought out the interest of Mr. Clifford and hereafter the firm will be known as the Reynolds Manufacturing Company. The firm has been in existence twelve years. The Reynolds Manufacturing company will still manufacture lumber and deal in coal, wood and logs. Mrs. Anna B. Cox who has been in the firm since the death of her husband, still retains her interest.

Reynolds & Clifford bought the business twelve years ago from Henry C. Yauky, who left here to take an interest in the Pan-American Bridge company of Newcastle, with which business, he is still affiliated. The local factory was started in 1893 by Cox & Yauky. Wilbur J. Cox died in 1899 and after operating the plant a few years, Mr. Yauky sold out to Reynolds & Clifford.

Mr. Clifford will retire from active business. He has not announced any definite plans for the future.

WORKMEN FIND OLD PORTRAIT

Famous Painting of Ingersol is Unearthed in Repair Shop at Museum in Boston.

SUPPOSED TO BE BY COPLEY

Brought to This Country from England—Will be Placed on Exhibition in Near Future

(By United Press.)

Boston, Oct. 10.—A Copley portrait of Jared Ingersol, property of the Philadelphia branch of the Armory family and now owned by Ingersol Amory, of Boston, has been brought to light by workmen in a repair shop of the Museum of Fine Arts in this city.

Preparing for the opening of the Evans memorial wing of the Museum, repairmen found a canvas, 40 inches long by 50 inches, covered with a coated wax and varnish that had dried to a tarlike consistency and that completely obscured the original colors and much of the detail of the picture.

Judges of the painting have denied that the portrait was by Copley but the removal of the wax covering is said to prove beyond a doubt the authorship of the work.

Jared Ingersol was a native of Milford, Ct. After graduating from school he was sent to England as an agent of the colonies, at the time Benjamin Franklin was in London in a similar capacity for the state of Pennsylvania. It is believed that while on this visit to London this portrait was made and later brought to this country.

Upon the opening of the new wing of the Museum, which will be in the near future this newly found portrait will be placed on exhibition.

LOCAL MARE TAKES DOWN THIRD MONEY

Aileen Patch Driven by Dick Wilson,
Does Well at Hamilton, Ohio,
Fair Races.

SINGLE G., AGAIN DEFEATED

Aileen Patch driven by Dick Wilson finished third in the 2:20 trot at the Butler county fair in Hamilton, Ohio, yesterday. The little mare finished second in the first heat, fifth in the second and then fourth in the third giving her third money in the summary. The best time was 2:17 1/2 made in the second heat. The performance was considered satisfactory by the driver and owners as she was never driven to the limit in any one of the three heats.

Single G., the crack pacer owned by W. H. Barefoot of Cambridge City was defeated by Florence McKinney in the free-for-all pace at the same fair yesterday. Single G., finished second and the race was won by Florence McKinney in straight heats. The best time was 2:08 1/2.

Short Skirts Reach Only To Top of Women's High Shoes

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for United Press.)

Though Susan and Sally Are not of the ballet, Their new skirts are all short but sweet;

For since it's their passion To follow the fashion, They've cut them about two small feet.

New York, Oct. 9.—I saw an exhibition of imported garments at a big department store this week that had run the gauntlet from Paris to Havre packed in huge osier baskets and lashed on the back of a touring car. They seemed not the least bit the worse for the wear of war.

The most striking feature of the whole collection was the fact that each and every skirt was cut off short to the tops of the high shoes. Possibly their hurried journey instead of making them arrive breathless with short "pants" had acted in a similar manner upon their skirts. Whatever the cause, however, the effect is an exposure of well turned ankles that seems just barely skirting the conventions.

Next to the shortness of the skirts the most startling note is the almost total lack of anything tangible in the bodices. Positively they consist of merely a wisp of tulle passing over each shoulder for a high girdle to cling to desperately.

Naturally this is only true of the evening gowns. One of the pretties of these is of pale pink velvet with a high girdle and a tunic that is long on one hip and short on the other. The underskirt is of white satin and between it and the pink velvet upper intermediary tunic of exquisite gold embroidered net.

The bodice of course consists merely of the velvet girdle supplemented by a slight drapery of the gold net and white tulle caught up on each shoulder with a small gold embroidered ornament.

A charming model for a debutante is of palest pink taffeta with a skirt of four-corded flounces flaring out quaintly like a vertiable crinoline. A full rose nestling in the high girdle and billows of softest bush (I should think it would) pink tulle, reveals a snowy throat and perfect arms to the best advantage.

Another striking evening gown of black lace over white satin has a wide piece of the black chantilly caught at each shoulder that falls behind straight to the floor like a train.

Another novel use of black chantilly on a black velvet gown precludes the wearer from any wild gestulation. The lace is caught on each side of the girdle in front passed over the shoulders like a cape the width of the lace being the whole length of the arms. It is sewed up into long tight sleeves through which the arms are slipped and then the lace keeps on its way around into the circular cape effect and is caught in the middle of the girdle behind. Hence the wearer looks as if she had sprouted a pair of Chantilly wings which she undoubtedly finds very irksome when she feels her back hair needs fixing.

Among the suits and afternoon frocks fur is all and everywhere. Fitch skunk and our old friend the beaver are the favorites. The newest collars shown on the coat suits are deep flat effects that reach from shoulder to shoulder in the rear without intruding in the front a little bit. They are mostly of the fur but a few are developed in heavy silk or velvet. Black velvet, by the way, and black satin form most of the afternoon gowns while gabardines, velvets and broadclothes compose the smartest suits.

On the gowns and waistlines are preferably long and either tightfitting or showing the loose straight line. The separate waists and blouses to the coat suits all show the high waistline. In the whole collection there isn't a frock or a suit that doesn't have some glint of a gold ornament, a shimmer of sequins, a gleam of jet or the shine of a button or bead.

This year all that glitters is not gold! Its sequins, spangles and what you will just so it gleams, glints or glistens.

ADVANCE AGENT
OF CHRISTMAS

Red Cross Seals Bearing Latest Picture of Santa Claus Will go on Sale Earlier

ORGANIZATION BEING MADE

Where Anti-Tuberculosis Associations Exist, They Will be Agents
for Little Stickers

It's coming!
Cheery little Christmas stickers bearing the latest picture of Santa Claus and the insignia of the American National Red Cross will be on sale earlier this year than ever before according to an announcement made today from state headquarters, 203 Public Savings building 147 E.
Market street, Indianapolis.

Organization of local committees
in every city and town in Indiana already is under way. In communities where an active anti-tuberculosis society exists, it will be made the local agent under an unusually liberal commission contract which will enable it to spend practically the entire amount received in local work against
"white plague."

Arrangements were completed recently by which clubs connected with the Indiana Federation of Clubs
will handle the seals in communities where no active anti-tuberculosis society exists. Ninety percent of all funds received through the sale of seals this year will remain in Indiana. The other ten percent will be sent to the American Red Cross to pay for the printing of the seals and advertising matter used in connection with the campaign.

The surplus of ten percent is used in a national educational propaganda which tends to arouse the nation
to the need for preventive measures.
That the money spent in Indiana
from the proceeds of the 1913 Red Cross seal campaign is bringing results is shown by the action of several counties which recently provided for local appropriations to be used in combating tuberculosis.

Every man, woman and child in Indiana will be urged to provide for an unusually liberal expenditure for seals this year. "Put a Red Cross
seal on every package or letter you mail in December" will be the slogan sent out. Organizations and individuals desiring to assist in the campaign are urged to notify headquarters, 203 Public Savings Bldg., Indianapolis.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS

against James E. Watson. No decision was given. The case of El-nora Alford against Kenneth Alford
for support money, which was started yesterday, was continued until Friday October 16, after part of the evidence had been heard. The case was sent here on a change of venue from Hancock county. The grand jury, which was in session yesterday, adjourned to meet again Wednesday.

WATSON LEAVES
ON TOUR OF OHIO

Rushville Man Will Make Four Republican Speeches and a Non-Partisan Address There.

TO SPEAK AT KANKAKEE, ILL.

Jas. E. Watson left today for five days' speaking tour of Ohio. Mr.
Watson will make a non-partisan
address at Ada, Ohio, tomorrow before the student body of a large university. Monday the former congressman will make a Republican speech at Bucyrus, Ohio and on Tuesday he will speak at Athens, O.
On the following day he will deliver a political speech at East Liverpool, Ohio. At this place is located the largest pottery and chinaware
manufacturing institution in the United States. On Thursday Mr. Watson will close his campaign in Ohio,
with an address at Cleveland.

On Friday Mr. Watson will go to Chicago and thence to Kankakee,
Illinois, where he will speak Saturday at a Republican meeting with
"Uncle" Joe Cannon, who is the Republican nominee for congress in that district. On Wednesday evening, October 28, Mr. Watson will be the principal speaker at a big Republican rally to be held in Terre Haute.

G. O. P ISSUES
MAIL STICKERS

Bear Inscription "We're on Our Way, Republican Victory Now" And Appears on Letters.

SIMILAR TO RED CROSS SEALS

First Consignment to Organization Workers Throughout State Totaled One Million.

"We're on Our Way. Republican Victory Now."
Little stickers, bearing these words, have made their appearance
in every precinct and township in Indiana. They are of about the same size as the Red Cross Christmas seals and not unlike them in color. A big part of the mail handled through the post offices of Indiana during the next month will bear
one of these little Republican stickers.

The center piece of this little stamp is a lively looking elephant
with his trunk and one of his front feet high in the air. A banner over his back bears the letters "G. O. P." This motto appears at the bottom of the stamp "Better Government, Lower Taxes."

Inquiry revealed the fact that the Republican state committee has fairly revealed the fact that the Republican state committee has fairly plastered the whole state of Indiana
with these attractive little stamps.
The first consignment to the organization workers, throughout the state,
it is said, totalled one million stamps.
They have been placed in the hands of the party workers and in the offices of newspapers throughout the state and a general invitation has been issued to every one who is in sympathy with the Republican party
this year to use these stickers on all of his correspondence between now
and election.

This novel idea has met with a hearty reception and the prediction
is made that the first consignment of these stamps will be exhausted in jig
time.

"We want every one who is with us this year to use these suggestive
little stickers on the back of all his letters between now and election," said Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican state committee. "We will undertake to fill any demand that may develop for these little
'Victory' stamps."

EARL SMALLEY IS DEAD OF TYPHOID

Expires at Home of His Father-in-Law, Lennie Hayes, Near Raleigh
This Morning.

WORKED AT WYATT'S STORE

Earl Smalley, 23 years old, a well known young man of this city, died
this morning at eight o'clock at the home of his father-in-law, Lennie Hayes, near Raleigh, from typhoid fever. He had been ill about four weeks and was removed there from this city three weeks ago. He gradually became worse and death was expected. Mr. Smalley came here from Richmond in April and had been employed at the George C.
Wyatt & Co. store. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smalley of near Straughn. His death comes as a great shock to his many friends.

He is survived by his widow, his parents and one brother, Pearl Smalley. The funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Raleigh Christian church and burial will take place in the Raleigh cemetery.

Twenty-Five Years to Write in Test
to Fill Vacancy and All But Three Are Accommodated.

NOT NEAR SO MANY EXPECTED

Not since April 1912 has such a large crowd taken a civil service examination as today when twenty-five appeared at the examination room in the court house to take the examination to fill a vacancy on a rural route out of Arlington. Besides filling the vacancy out of Arlington,
those successful in passing the examination will be held on the eligible list
for a period of one year to fill other vacancies that may occur in the county.

Because of the large number of applicants to take the examination it will be necessary to hold another examination as Clarence Cross, who conducted the examination, was not prepared for this large number and as a result only twenty-two could be accommodated. He was informed that eighteen would take the test but instead of this twenty-five men appeared. The date for the second examination has not been announced.

LABOR LEADERS ARE INTERESTED

Believed They Will Support Proposed Amendment Calling For Centennial Building in Indianapolis

TO BE VOTED ON THIS FALL

Appropriation Calls for Two Million Dollars—to Spend Most of it For Library

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—The proposal to build a state library and museum at Indianapolis as a practical memorial marking the centennial of Indiana's admission to the Union has aroused considerable interest among Hoosier labor leaders. Technical education has become an important factor in modern life. The apprentice in machine, automobile, woodworking and electrical shops no longer can develop into a skilled artisan merely by serving a number of years in an apprenticeship. The modern mechanic has to be a man of books as well as practice. Books dealing with technical subjects are finding much greater demand among young men now than in years gone by. The result of the change in literary tastes has been a demand on the present state library that it is unable to meet. Demarehus C. Brown, the state librarian, said today it would be necessary to establish a technical bureau in the new library, if the voters in November decide they really see the need of an institution such as New York, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, West Virginia and Missouri now have.

The last Indiana legislature decided to leave it to the voters of the state to decide the question of appropriating $2,000,000 for the celebration of the Hoosier centennial. The purpose is to spend practically all of that amount in the erection of a new memorial library and museum. The voters will mark their ballots "yes" or "no" to the proposal in November. Men who have studied the question say the laboring men and mechanics of Indiana are going to support the measure. The technical division of the new library would be available for every man, woman and child in Indiana, thus giving all the opportunity to study on subjects dealing with their particular craft.

The state library system makes it possible for every worthy Hoosier to borrow books from it, the only requirement being that the borrower pay parcel post cost on the document or book when it is in transportation. Crowded and cramped as it is, the state library meets many such demands now. A great library of technical works would be possible if the new memorial library is built to mark the one hundred years of Indiana's progress. That is why so many of Indiana's labor leaders are going to vote "yes" on the memorial library question in November, say the friends of the memorial proposition.

Buy Cotton Goods

Every woman who buys and uses cotton goods at this time is helping to revive American industries.

She is helping the South to move its cotton crop; she is giving impetus to the mills and spinners.

Cotton has a multitude of uses—it is the world's great staple.

Today, because of the European war, it is lower in price than in many a day.

The stores are offering many attractive values in cotton goods as can be seen by the advertising in the Daily Republican.

SLOGAN TO HAVE DOUBLE MEANING

"Shop Early" Movement Will be Pushed as Aid to Business as Well as Christmas

TRADE EVERYWHERE SLACK

Plan to Stimulate it and Campaign to This End Will be Started in Chicago

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Oct. 10.—A "Do your Christmas shopping early" movement with a double purpose was launched here today by the Consumers League of Illinois.

"Business everywhere is so slack that we are trying to get everybody to do their Christmas by buying early to prevent many working girls from being discharged," said Miss Elsa Worthem, secretary of the League.

"If we can get people all over the country to do their Christmas shopping now, or at least to get started, present trade conditions will be stimulated and there will be a steady flow of business until the first of the year when business conditions should return to normal. This may save thousands of employees, particularly girls in the department stores, from being discharged. Of course it will also prevent overworking them later in the holiday season when the aching and frazzled nerves of the shop girl makes Christmas anything but a time of gladness and good will."

Plans of the campaign includes visits to heads of department stores for their co-operation, placing the question before women's clubs, and the position of placards advertising the movement.

Benumbed Women, Children and Old Men In Wake of Army Most Pitiful

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Oct. 1. (By mail to New York)—I am just back from the front where the fighting is actually going on, from the battlefield where French and English and German soldiers have added new and lusty pages to history.

It was not the actual front which impressed me most, the bloody front where rapid firers purred and spat and sharpnel spilled their singing sprays of dead. It was rather the wake of the armies where the women and children and crippled old men sat and blinked and stared dazedly benumbed, not appreciating as yet the fullness of the catastrophic thing which had just passed over them.

Coming out of Soissons, I met a caravan of wounded, walking southwards towards Chateau-Thierry and Meaux. There were men of all arms and all the fighting ages—men from Algeria, Tunis, Morocco and Senegal; there were French, English and Hindu, all with the first blood—crusted bandages, applied to arms, heads and limbs, hobbling slowly down the muddy road under a cold, soaking drizzle. They were the only slightly wounded, evacuating the firing lines upon their own legs and they were pitiful.

But south of Meaux bound southward to the plains of the Marne, I passed another caravan more pitiful still. It was a caravan of old men, women girls, children and babies, bound home after being driven beyond Paris by the southward sweep of the great war. They were from the farms, the battlefield of the Giganterie armies and most of them were compelled to walk, there being rickety carts and wagons enough for only a few of the sick, the too old or too young to march.

One woman I saw was barefooted. She had trudged her shoes off her feet. It was raining—this was the same day I saw the column of wounded evacuating Soissons—and the roads were deep in mud because for weeks artillery, auto-trucks, army trains and convoys of army supplies plus the wheels of various other war machines, had cut into them deeply. This woman was pushing a baby carriage in which were two children and some household effects. Her skirts dragged the mud as she lean forward, pushing the buggy and she was bespattered to the waist. Bareheaded, under the drizzle she struggled on, a feverish light in her eyes and twin spots glowing through to the skin.

I spoke to her and learned her husband was "in the east" somewhere on the firing line. She had not heard from him. Yes, she was uneasy. Suddenly I asked her what she thought of the war.

"It's glorious, isn't it?" she replied in her champagne country dialect. "We are pushing the Germans back out of our country. If 'ours' continues to fight as they are fighting now, we shall win soon. Don't you think so—with the English to help?"

It was an unlooked-for reply. I had expected something else—a tirade against everything and everybody, the wail of a tired worn-out woman; another of the war's wounded.

This caravan was only one of many. They fled from their villages and farms as the Germans advanced hamlets and neighbors going together. Their horses and good vehicles were often seized, leaving only oxen and unfit horses to draw the two wheel carts and squeaking wagons filled with hay and women and babies indiscriminately mixed.

At night they camped by the roadside whether it rained or the stars came out. The only food they had was that with which they began the last stage of the journey—Paris—home. They had no meat and their bread was stale and wet and soggy. They slept in their clothes, some of them under the carts and wagons to keep out of the worst of the down-pour.

These are the real sufferers of the war. They left farms which looked like great gardens; fruit trees laden with ripe fruits; fields of wheat ready for the harvest; stockyards fat with cattle and sheep and chickens and porkers.

They return to battlefields. Stone fences have been razed by artillery. Wheat is trampled and ruined; the graves of thousands of fallen dot the grain fields and dead horses, swollen to twice normal size, lie here and there. Fruit trees are cut by shells and perhaps the homes themselves are only forlorn and smoked ruins. The cattle and sheep, the poultry and the hogs are all gone to feed the soldiers, friend and enemy alike—for these fields to the north and east of Paris have been fought over twice by the most formidable forces of any time—first the Germans pushing the allies back against the walls of Paris, then the allies fighting the Germans and Austrians back to the frontiers.

And all the time the soldiers whether they willed it or not, were treading upon the aged, the weak, the women and the young. Of the two caravans that of the wounded soldiers going to the rear and that of the poor farmers homeward bound, the destiny of the latter is to be the harder. In the distance of 70 miles I saw but three people working in the fields.

It isn't the war which depresses. The rattle of battle stimulates like wine. But in the track of the war where the old are, and the women and children wait, there is real suffering. The effect of merely passing through the country is racking deserted fields, broken fences, felled trees, trampled crops, shell torn or burned houses, scarred villages remain where the shutters are drawn and the people remain invisible if they remain at all, the utter desolation which stalks about, the tragic silence which follows in the wake of the cannon—all force the question to one's mind:

After all, who really wins?

The answer apparently would be Death.

ENGLAND MADE GOOD HER WORD

Foulke Says Great Britain Was Justified in Declaring War to Protect Belgium

MIGHT HAVE COME ANY WAY

Tried to Secure Modification of Demands Made by Austria on Serbia But Failed

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 10. "England was absolutely justified in declaring war as a matter of duty to perform her sacred obligations to maintain Belgian's neutrality," is the declaration of William Dudley Foulke, reviewing in the fifth of his series of articles for the United Press the causes of the great European war. Mr. Foulke, who acted for the United States in a German province when the war broke out, says that history of diplomacy probably does not furnish an example of abler efforts for the preservation of peace than that of Sir Edward Grey acting for England in this crisis. Foulke writes:

BY WILLIAM DUDLEY FOULKE
(Written for United Press.)

It was the violation of the neutrality of Belgium which immediately and directly brought about England's participation in the war. England was bound to maintain her plighted word guaranteeing this neutrality. The Germans say however that this is a mere pretext; that the real cause of England's enmity was jealousy and self interest, because the competition of Germany had made such heavy inroads upon England's commerce and because the growing navy of Germany was becoming a menace to England's dominion of the sea.

Now it is true that if Germany had attacked the northern seaports of France along the English channel, thus putting the south side of the channel under the dominion of a dangerous and probably hostile power, England was prepared to go into the war whether Belgium was invaded or not; nor was England willing to see all western Europe under the control of one great military empire, which might in time overthrow her own naval supremacy; a supremacy which was necessary to her food supply and therefore to her national existence.

Now if Germany had kept out of Belgium she could have thrown upon England the responsibility of declaring war upon this question of mere self-interest. But she did not do so. She put herself so clearly in the wrong that England was absolutely justified in declaring war as a matter of duty in order to perform her secret obligation to maintain Belgian neutrality.

Moreover, England had made the most strenuous efforts to preserve the peace. She had tried to secure a modification of the extreme demands made upon Serbia in the Austrian ultimatum. She had urged that the Serbian answer which conceded so much should at least be made the basis of future negotiation. She had proposed a conference of all the powers who were not directly interested—Italy, France, England and Germany,—to use their good offices to compose the trouble, a proposition which Germany rejected on the ground that she could not take part in a conference to mediate upon the conduct of her ally, Austria. England had then asked Germany to propose herself, any plan which might promise a peaceful outcome declaring her willingness to co-operate. She endeavored to secure delay in military movements and mobilization. She had refused to give to Russia or to France any assurance that she would co-operate with them and indeed she had told them that if they rejected reasonable proposals for peace they were not to count upon her assistance.

The diplomatic correspondence reveals the most tireless efforts upon the part of the English government to prevent the war. How then can it justly be said, as many partisans of Germany do often say, that more

He knows that it prints all the facts on all sides; he knows that if you want to keep reliably informed on every important phase, not only of the war, but of all other important happenings throughout the world, you must read THE LITERARY DIGEST, for it is the only weekly of its kind published.

More than a million business and professional people read it and it is more in demand at the present time than ever before.

Newspapers, in their desire and haste to give the war news, are likely to report a battle to-day which they have to contradict to-morrow, and this naturally keeps the minds of their readers hopelessly confused.

THE LITERARY DIGEST, being published weekly, is enabled to rectify the confusion of ideas and by analyzing, sifting, and digesting the news as published in the European and American press, keep its readers fully and accurately informed.

It reproduces illustrations, cartoons, maps, and portraits; it reprints every significant utterance of European statesmen and diplomats; every news-fact that has a bearing upon the great struggle is presented without editorial bias or coloring.

Booth Tarkington on Hugh Th. Miller

Probably the most efficient man in the Whole Assembly for general or all round work was Representative Miller. His influence grew marvelously, because he showed himself so widely, sharply, intelligent, so alert, so perfectly fearless and so trustworthy as a vote leader for the undecided. He has been spoken of for the next speakership, and, if he will take it, should have it without question. No one made a better record; he is a safe man for any position whatsoever—and he is of the sort most needed in state politics. Such men as Miller and Cantwell, for instance, are needed to watch, watch,—for there is much that will bear watching.—Booth Tarkington, author, in Indianapolis News, March 28, 1903.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Look years younger! Use the old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Experts Discover Method to Make Table Sirup From Juice of Apples

Following extensive experiments begun last spring, the head of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has applied for a public service patent covering the making of a new form of table sirup from apple juice. This patent will make the discovery, which the specialists believe will be of great value to all apple growers as a means of utilizing their culls and excess apples, common property of any cider mill in the United States which wishes to manufacture and sell apple cider sirup.

The new sirup, one gallon of which is made from 7 gallons of ordinary cider, is a clear ruby or amber colored sirup of about the consistency of cane sirup and maple sirup. Properly sterilized and put in sealed tins or bottles, it will keep indefinitely, and when opened, will keep under household conditions as well as other sirups. It has a distinct fruity aroma and special flavor of its own which is described as being practically the same as the taste of the sirupy substance which exudes from a baked apple.

The sirup can be used like maple or other sirups for griddle cakes, cereals, household cookery, and as flavoring in desserts. The Government cooking experts are at present experimenting with it in cookery and expect shortly to issue recipes for use of the new sirup in old ways and for taking advantage of its special flavor in novel dishes.

The Department chemists have already produced over ten gallons of this sirup in their laboratories, using summer and other forms of apples. The success of the experiments has greatly interested some of the apple growers, and during October a large cider mill in the Hood River Valley, Oregon, will in co-operation with the Government chemists, endeavor to produce 1,000 gallons on a commercial scale and give the new product a thorough market test by making it accessible through retailers in a limited field. The interest of apple growers in the product arises from the fact that the new apple cider sirup promises to give them a commercial outlet for vast quantities of windfall and other apples which they hitherto could find no market either in perishable raw cider or in vinegar. Cider production, it seems, comes largely at one season of the year during which the market is more or less flooded with this perishable product. The bulk and perishability of the raw cider, moreover, the cider makers state, often make it unprofitable for them to ship the raw cider of one district long distances to a nonapple-growing region. The market for cider, therefore has been largely restricted in many cases to localities near the area of production. No method of sterilizing ordinary cider has been found practical for the reason that boiling cider at once interferes with its delicate flavor.

With the cider mill able to make a palatable, long-keeping table sirup out of its apple juice, growers, it is believed, will be able to use all excess juice for bottled or canned apple sirup. The new sirup, the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually throughout the year.

The process for making the sirup calls for the addition to a cider mill of a filter press and open kettles or some other concentrating apparatus. The process is described as follows: The raw cider is treated with pure milk of lime until nearly, but not quite, all of the natural malic acids are neutralized. The cider is then heated to boiling and filtered through a filter press, an essential feature of the process. The resultant liquid is then evaporated either in continuous evaporators or open kettles, just as ordinary cane or sorghum sirup is treated. It then is cooled and allowed to stand for a short time, which causes the lime and acids to form small crystals of calcium malate. The sirup is then re-filtered through the filter press, which removes the crystals of calcium malate and leaves a sirup with practically the same basic composition as ordinary cane sirup. Its flavor, however, and appearance are distinctive.

Calcium malate, the by-product, is a substance used in medicine and at present selling for $2 per pound. It is believed that calcium malate can be produced in this way cheaply and in large quantities, it can be made commercially useful in new ways, possibly in the manufacture of baking powder.

The cost of making this sirup on a commercial scale will be determined during the test in October.

600 WOUNDED IN WATERY GRAVE

Story Not Published Heretofore Tells

of Loss of Life When Bridge Across Marne Falls

TRAIN CARRYING GERMANS

Only 160 Men Are Taken From the

Wreckage Alive—Utmost Secrecy

Surrounds Affair

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, September 23, (By Mail to New York)—When a train carrying wounded and German prisoners from Meaux to Paris plunged through a weakened bridge across the Marne on September 20, there is every reason to believe that nearly 600 wounded men were drowned.

The utmost secrecy has surrounded the affair. Nothing more awful has happened in the European war than this accident. I have been able to obtain the following facts:

The train consisted of 18 cars, each carrying fifty wounded men. Many of these men had lain on battlefields without attention of any sort for from one to two days and were congratulating themselves on the fact that they had been rescued and were on the way back to the comfortable big hospital in Paris.

On the rear of the train, as it departed from Meaux in the early evening, was attached a car full of German prisoners.

Before reaching the Marne, the engineer, who had never before operated an engine on the line, was given orders to stop at a red light which he would find. A switchman who misunderstood his instructions, sent the train on the wrong track and the light which was the stopping signal was not seen by the engineer. Instead, he saw ahead of him another red light which had been placed at a gap in the bridge over the river. He ran up to this light and to his horror, the bridge beams began to break under the engine. Then the coupling broke behind him. The engine had reached a solid part of the bridge but the other cars, with the exception of the rear car, which contained the Germans had piled into the river with their load of wounded men.

Soldiers were summoned from both sides of the river. Only 160 men were taken from the wreckage alive. Though no public statement has been made, the reports indicate that about 600 wounded men, many of them too weak to struggle for their lives were drowned like rats in their trap-like compartments. The dead were buried on the river banks.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat, which forms uric acid.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

A STUDY IN COLORS By Tom Elrod

The Bull Moose organ in this state has seen fit to speak of Hugh Th. Miller, Republican candidate for United States Senator, as being "colorless." Taking this statement at its face value one would naturally presume that all of the primary colors may be ascribed to its own candidate for the same position as an effort has been made by that newspaper to show that its candidate contains all the virtues and all the ability to be found running at large. Hence he must contain all the colors also.

Webster's dictionary is not considered a political textbook and the definitions found there doubtless will be accepted by a bull moose organ the same as by newspapers in general, so it may be interesting to go into this matter of color a little deeper and see what the dictionary says.

Under the word "color," Webster says: "A property depending on the relations of light to the eye by which individual and specific differences in the hues and tints of objects are apprehended in vision."

This definition says nothing specifically about the minor candidates for United States Senator. It does refer to the differences in the hues while this article deals more with the difference between Hugh and some others.

And now, let's see if Mr. Miller really is colorless, as has been charged.

Take blue, for instance. As a definition for blue Webster says: "Low in spirits, melancholy, gloomy in prospect."

Well of course that definition does not apply to Mr. Miller except, in part. He is low in some kinds of spirits. He has never been much of a hand to be high in spirits frumment or any other intoxicating beverage. He has always seemed to be able to ride on the water wagon without being bothered by the jolts and jars. Having kept sober he has been in a frame of mind to transact his own business and the business that others have instructed to him. He is the last man in the state who should be melancholy or "gloomy in prospect." Prospects with him never were brighter than they are now, with a seat in the United States Senate and a chance to represent the state of Indiana and her people just ahead.

Take red for another color. That does not seem to fit Hugh Miller either. Red is the color of rage and his friends know him to be even tempered, calm and judicial. It has often been said of him that he would have made an ideal judge because he always looks at every side of a question before he makes up his mind. He weighs all of the evidence and gives every witness a fair and square hearing. Red is also the color of noses and faces that are sometimes painted from within. Nothing like that will be found in connection with the Republican candidate.

There's violet, another color. That will not apply. It makes one think of the shrinking violet. Mr. Miller does not shrink from a duty or shirk the work that faces him. He never has been that kind of a man in his private affairs or with the affairs of the state.

And, oh yes, there's yellow. There absolutely is no yellow streak in Hugh Miller. Those who have watched him as a representative in the legislature, as lieutenant governor of Indiana, as a professor in college and as a business man in private life, can testify to this. His record as president of the state senate was even so fine that the Democrats in the senate united in adopting resolutions, attesting his fairness, his ability, his honesty and integrity. No there's no yellow streak in him.

Webster says of green that it means "not ripe, immature; not fully grown." And that will not fit the case anywhere. Mr. Miller is just at the prime of life; he is a man's size man and there is no brain in the state more mature, more capable and better trained to grasp the problems of public life and solve them, than his. So green will have to be crossed out too.

To be sure there is purple but Webster says this color refers to "royal rank," such as "born to the purple," etc. That does not hit Mr.

Miller at any place. He was born on a farm in Johnson county and he worked there as a youth. He still farms in the summer months and he is just as plain as any citizen of the commonwealth. There is nothing of the royal rank about him. He does not think he was divinely called to office; he is not arrogant, egotistical or proud. There is nothing of the boss in his make up. Hugh Miller is just folks, like any one else, and that is one reason why he makes friends so readily and why the people who know him are so ready to testify to his abilities.

So that is about all the primary colors and not one of them has been a fit.

You know white is not a color, hence it must be colorless. And Webster's definition for that word is "Free from spot or blemish, or from guilt or pollution. Characterized by freedom from that which disturbs, and the like; fortunate, happy, favorable."

There, we've found it at last. Mr. Miller is "free from that which disturbs," except that he is disturbing the peace of mind of the moose bosses and democrats. He is "fortunate" in being at the head of a ticket that is going to be successful this fall. He is "happy" because he sees victory just ahead. He is "free from spot or blemish" because his political enemies have taken a fine tooth comb and gone into his past, both public and private and they could find nothing whatever against him. They had to admit that everybody liked him, that he had ability, that he was a good fellow, that he would make an excellent Senator and that there was nothing they found at last, that could be said to his detriment. So they decided to say he was colorless.

And if Mr. Miller is not blue, or red, or green, or yellow, or purple, he must be white, clean white, all the way through. So in this fashion the bull moose organ proves its contention. Yes Hugh Miller is colorless if you accept the dictionary for the proper meaning of the term.
